

Our family has enjoyed not being bothered by so many telemarketers. The worst part about them is that they don't take no for an answer. We usually have to firmly state that we are not interested or end up hanging up on them. It can really change the mood of an otherwise pleasant evening.